

Flow Festival will not take place in 2020 due to the coronavirus pandemic

There will be no Flow Festival in 2020. The safety of all festival visitors, artists, staff, event workers and suppliers is the priority – and must be guaranteed in all circumstances. The festival organisers have been monitoring the Covid-19 situation and experts' predictions very closely hoping that the situation would normalise. Unfortunately, it has become clear that producing large events like Flow Festival, taking place just in a few months, is not safe.

The festival organisers will now focus their efforts on planning for the next year's edition. Flow Festival will be held again August 13–15, 2021 in Helsinki.

“Flow Festival has been organised in Helsinki since 2004. It has become a highlight of the summer for many and an important chance to gather up with friends. But the health and safety of people come first. Even in times as strange as these, the sense of community and meaningful culture do not lose their importance, and we do look forward to seeing music, food and art lovers at Flow Festival again next year. We will inform about the program of the 2021 Flow Festival as soon as we can”, says Tuomas Kallio, Artistic Director and Chairman of the Board of Flow Festival.

Purchased tickets for Flow Festival 2020 will be automatically valid for the 2021 edition. The team at Flow hopes that as many people as possible will support the festival in this exceptional situation and save their tickets for the next year. However, ticket holders will have a choice of a refund too. Ticket sellers will email more detailed instructions to ticket buyers in a few days, and information will be updated on the Flow Festival website in the coming days as well.

Flow Festival will inform about the program for 2021 later this year.
