

Family Sunday charms little festival-goers with a diverse program of performances, creative workshops, and more

Flow Festival's popular Family Sunday returns on the 13th of August with a day filled with lively performances, diverse activities and creative workshops for the smallest festival-goers. Adults with a ticket that includes Sunday can bring children aged 12 and under to enjoy the festival atmosphere free of charge between 1 pm and 5 pm.

Flow Festival's Backyard is filled with playful energy as Skidit collective takes over the venue with a disco led by DJ Orkidea and charming performances by the three-year-old Selma, who plays a live set with their parent, and Kallio Music School's little performers, all hosted by the 12-year-old Tio Tenhunen. At Backyard, children can also participate in summer music playgroups, and at Helsinki DJ Academy's tent, young festival-goers are invited to explore the world of DJing with the guidance of professionals. Pikku Gubbe & Friends' stage show features new bands formed at Pikku Gubbe's summer camps. Additionally, Pikku Gubbe Music Club invites participants of Family Sunday to record their own lyrics for a collaborative song, style themselves as their artist alter egos and film an epic clip for the aftermovie.

Helsingin Sanomat's Children's News and their mascot Reportteri Repo arrive at Flow for the first time, handing out Children's News newspapers to the information-thirsty kids. The Startup Refugees Garden offers a variety of creative and interactive workshops as a part of Family Sunday, including arts and crafts such as T-shirt making and postcard writing, as well as a braiding workshop, where adults are invited to learn some easy braiding techniques.

Furthermore, the environmental organisation WWF offers animal- and nature-themed face paintings at the WWF Lounge, and families can grab delicious Vaasan Koulunäkki Snäkkis snacks from the courtyard of The Bao restaurant. Furthermore, Oddlygood x Gold&Green Tasteland invites families to their colourful playground to play and taste their plant-based treats.
